April Awards Luncheon– Distinguished Citizen– Angela Shutran

What does it take to be a distinguished citizen? This person is absolutely passionate about Green River. They continually volunteer, support and are behind the scenes working for the betterment of our community. They have demonstrated a long history of civic involvement to the community. This year's 2016 Distinguished Citizen award goes to Angela Shutran. Angela has been at US Bank for 21 years after starting there as a teller and progressing to her current position, Assistant Vice President/Branch Manager. Angela just accepted a new role with US Bank, Hub/District Manager for Southwest Wyoming. Angela will still remain the Branch Manager in Green River; Angela wants to continue working with her local customers that she has become quite fond of.

For the past 15 years Angela has been actively involved in the community: Angela has been a member of the Green River Chamber of Commerce Board since 2013. She is currently the Vice President of the Green River chamber of Commerce. During that time she has served on the following Chamber Committees: Executive, Finance, Policy Manual, Business Development, and Beautification. She has also served on several boards. Angela has received a multitude of Awards & Recognition.

Rebecca Eusek had this to say about Angela, "I honestly cannot say enough about Angie. From the moment I met her, she has always been helpful and gracious. I can always count on Angela and her husband Mike to be at every ribbon cutting the chamber hosts and every after hours event. Angie is always the first to volunteer for every committee and event. She is also the first person to show up and the last to leave. Angie even shows up on her days off to meetings and she and Mike even helped serve shrimp to 800 people during the river festival on their wedding anniversary! She goes above and beyond for Green River, dedicating time and money to all types of projects that benefit our community. She is truly a gift to Green River." Mayor Pete Rust said, "Angie Shutran is an outstanding candidate for distinguished citizen of the year as she has volunteered her time on numerous committees/projects for many years to help improve her community. Her energy and enthusiasm coupled with her hard work and knowledge have helped many of these committees and projects achieve success for the benefit of Green River." Even with Angela's consistent dedication to her job, her customers and her community; she still finds time for her family, friends and the gym. Angela enjoys fishing with her husband Mike and working on their house. She finds the time for her family both here and in Cody, WY. Every year Angela and Mike make handmade gifts for their neighbors and find the time for the neighborhood porch gatherings. Angela is always wearing a smile and takes the time for everyone she encounters. Whether it is her smile, hello or her helping hand. Thank you Angela for your dedication and passion for your community.

April Awards Luncheon– Red Carpet of the Year– Judi Laughter

What goes around comes around! Especially when it comes to customer service; 90% of all service people fail to perform basic common courtesies such as greeting, making eye contact and really listening. Customer Service is extremely important if you want your business to succeed. Customers are vital to your organization. Customers will spend 10% more for the same product if they receive better service. Unhappy customers will talk about their experience with 9-15 people, and those people will tell 5 or 6 others. A good customer service experience is usually shared with about 8 people. Customer service is vital to every organization because it can help differentiate itself. In small towns our greatest assets are the people. Great customer service from a business in Green River can keep customers from taking their business to Rock Springs or shopping online. Businesses with excellent customer service are also more likely to see repeat customers. Over 5 years ago the Green River Chamber started a program entitled the "Red Carpet Customer Service Award". This program was put in place to recognize those individuals in our community who "roll out the red carpet" for their customers. The Green River Chamber recognizes individuals with outstanding customer service every month. The Chamber compiled the list of all the 2015 winners and the membership voted on the Red Carpet Customer Service Award winner for 2015: This year's winner is Judi Laughter with the Sweetwater County Museum.

Judi Laughter was nominated by Brie Blasi. Brie had this to say about Judi, "The museum had some visitors from out of state that were very interested in visiting a historic site. Judi went above and beyond helping them over the course of several weeks. She spent time gathering information for them, speaking with them on the phone, making sure they got in contact with the correct people, and even stayed late to allow them to visit the museum when they got to town. Judi always offers great customer service, but this was one example of how she always puts forth her best effort to make sure visitors have the best experience!" Congratulations Judi!

April Awards Luncheon– Volunteer of the Year– Trish Gregory

Volunteers are the life-blood of Chamber work, without dedicated volunteers the Chamber would not be able to accomplish as much as we do. Each year we recognize an individual that has volunteered above and beyond for the Chamber.

This year's 2016 Chamber Volunteer of the Year is Trish Gregory!

Trish Gregory was a member of the Green River Chamber board for 8 years from 2008 to 2015. Mrs. Gregory served as President of the Board in 2014 and 2015. During her tenure; she served on several committees such as: River Festival Committee-Kids Game, Finance Committee, Executive Committee, and Business Development and Retention Committee. Mrs. Gregory is currently the manager at the Oak Tree Inn. We appreciate everything Mrs. Gregory has done and continues to do for the Green River Chamber of Commerce.

Lisa Herrera, Finance and Membership Manager for the Chamber said, "Trish is always a pleasure to be around. She is one of the quiet unsung heroes of Green River. The past two years there was not one time that I called her that she didn't answer her phone or call me right back if I had to leave her a message. Anytime that I needed her to sign anything she was always at the ready. Trish is still a big part of the Chamber she is still volunteering and is currently on the Business Development and Retention Committee. The Green River Chamber and our community is very fortunate to have Trish."

Misty Springer, Chamber Board member said, "Trish was a dedicated member of the Chamber Board for many years. During her time as president, Trish was present at nearly every event and was always available whenever Rebecca needed her. Trish loves her community and Green River is lucky to have such a wonderful and selfless person who is always willing to lend a hand." Thank you Trish for your commitment to the Chamber and for all of your volunteer efforts. Congratulations.

Governmental Affairs– Beautification

A few months ago the City formed a Beautification Committee in partnership with Sweetwater County Travel and Tourism. Just this week the Beautification Committee learned that they have been awarded a grant from the Wyoming Department of Transportation which means that their first project will get underway this summer.

The project is the first phase of a xeriscaping plan at the east entrance of town. The round grassy field diagonally across from the Chamber's sign is the first focus of the Beautification Committee's efforts. It will be landscaped with flowering deciduous trees and conifers, they will also be planting decorative grasses and shrubs and of course perennial flowers. The project will be undertaken cooperatively by the City's Parks and Recreation Department, the Beautification Committee and a host of volunteers.

Beautification in one's community has many more benefits than simply the smile evoked by a beautiful tree or a hanging basket of flowers. An attractive community increases home values, helps attract business, improves a city's reputation and lifts people's spirits. Since the early 20th century American architects, elected officials, engineers and city planners have known the value of community beautification, there was even a movement called City Beautiful. Early proponents of the City Beautiful philosophy believed that aesthetics, or a community with attractive surroundings made their citizens behave better and generally increased civic virtue, though that theory was never directly tested.

When people are happy with the place where they live they are more likely to stay, which translates to a more talented workforce because the best and the brightest decide to stay or they come back and invest in their hometowns. When this happens the population grows, and the economy grows; the community diversifies and there are more restaurants, attractions, retail stores and festivals. The Beautification Committee knows that their goal to make Green River more attractive is just one small part of a bigger plan for the community. Every garden starts with just one seed and sometimes that's all it takes to create a stronger and brighter future.
